Question #1: Will a strictly online LMS be considered? Or does a portion of what a vendor provides need to be in person?

Answer: Yes, an online LMS option will be considered. In-person training options are preferred.

Question #2: Does a vendor need to have all content listed within the RFP, or would certain sections be considered? We also have an in-house instructional design team. Not sure if content development would be considered for missing pieces of content.

Answer: No provider is expected to have all of the content listed in the RFP. Each program/course offering will be considered individually and you are encouraged to highlight any instructional design capabilities.
